

A TRUE TEST.

Love to God must show itself by love to our neighbor. If we try to live on the table of the Decalogue, or on one part of the Lord's prayer, we become like a boat with one oar, or a bird with one wing. If the hand be outstretched in supplication toward God, it must also be opened in benefaction toward men. There is a great danger of partiality in our choice of God's commandments. Many a man practically says: "This commandment harmonizes with my taste; therefore I will perform it. That one does not; therefore I will neglect it. This one is in line with my social relations; that one is not; I will obey the one, and neglect the other. This one is essential to salvation; I will perform it. That one is not; therefore I shall neglect it." Such an attitude as that is unworthy of a true Christian man. He never asks, "How little can I do and be saved?" He simply inquires, "Lord what wilt thou have me do?"—R. S. McArthur, D. D.
